Moody's Analytics is pleased to announce the new appointment of Adam Etherington as Director, Sales of Enterprise Risk Solutions for the Asia Pacific region

"I am excited to join Moody's Analytics. The entire industry within this region – from banks and insurance providers to other financial institutions – is experiencing a renaissance in how ideas, technology, and data are transforming our lives and the way we work. While this offers great opportunity, it also requires that we identify how change, both external and internal, can be used to best deliver business benefits and competitive advantages for our clients. Moody's Analytics offers a unique combination of data, research, modelling, and software that helps our clients address these challenges and best prepare for the road ahead."

Adam Etherington – Director, Sales for Moody's Analytics Enterprise Risk Solutions in APAC – has more than 12 years of experience in client sales, the last eight of which were spent working in the North America and Greater China financial markets. Prior to joining Moody's Analytics in 2014, Mr. Etherington was Managing Director at Gemini Systems, an IBM Premier Business Partner. Prior to that, he held a number of key positions at IBM. He holds a Bachelor of Arts in Computer Science and Business from Furman University in South Carolina, United States.
