COURSE OUTLINE:

Corporate Cash Flow Analysis

Overview
It is future cash flows that pay interest and principal, not historic accrual profits. This seminar focuses on the importance of cash flow analysis in the credit assessment process. Beyond its focus on cash flow analysis, the seminar deals with credit risk issues of companies with international activities and the difficulties involved when dealing with off-balance sheet and contingent liabilities. This seminar is part of the general corporate credit risk analysis seminars offered by Moody's Analytics and builds on the concepts explored in our Fundamentals of Corporate Credit Analysis seminar.

Learning Objectives
Upon completion of this seminar delegates will be able to:
» understand cash flow and its role in the credit risk assessment process
» interpret the impact of primary cash drivers
» prepare projections to assess future cash flow quality
» project future cash flow, debt service cover and credit need from non-financial information
» identify potential liquidity problems before they become a threat to a client’s business
» assess cash flow issues specific to international companies

Who Should Attend
The seminar is aimed at all those with an existing good knowledge of financial statements and basic credit analysis, and whose aim it is to go beyond the assessment of historic accrual financial statements. Delegates could come from a broad range of backgrounds, such as » Commercial credit analysts
» Commercial lenders, loan officers,
