DUBAI, July 2, 2013 — Moody's Analytics, a leader in risk measurement and management, today announced the continued expansion of its service portfolio for the financial services industry in the Middle East. The company currently serves more than 120 institutions in the region with enterprise risk-management solutions, professional services, training as well as credit research and analytics.

Customers in the Middle East can now benefit from a range of new Moody's Analytics services, including: expertise and insight around regulatory compliance, professional training services and Enterprise Risk implementation services. Moody's Analytics has also expanded its regional team based in Dubai, reinforcing their expertise and capability across the industry and local markets. Part of this expansion includes strengthening its customer service team, which now offers local support to customers as well as adding a local implementation team supporting the delivery of Enterprise Risk Solutions across the region.

"Since the opening of our Dubai office in 2008, our team as well as our services portfolio have been steadily growing. This underscores our ongoing commitment to the region, where we now serve over 120 customers. We are delighted that we are now able to offer even greater support to the local financial community," says Wael Jadallah, Senior Director of Moody's Analytics, Middle East.

With more than 15 years experience in the Middle East market, Moody's Analytics provides customers and risk practitioners with a unique range of risk-management and credit decision-making tools to help them transition their risk frameworks and capabilities to global standards, and address the increased requirement of automation within credit processes as well as the need to make better informed and more timely decisions.

Moody's Analytics' current offerings include diverse data sets and quantitative risk-scoring capabilities, integrated credit scoring, loan origination and exposure-management tools as well regulatory and economic capital management solutions for out-of-the-box multi-jurisdiction regulatory compliance.
