LONDON, December 16, 2016 — Moody's Analytics is pleased to announce that it has won the Gold Award for Best Enterprise Learning Platform Implementation in the 2016 Learning Technology Awards. NetDimensions, Moody's learning management system partner, is co-recipient of the award.

Moody's Analytics integrated its innovative online learning courses within the NetDimensions Talent Suite and deployed the combined solution at its financial institutions clients worldwide. The Gold award recognizes the scale and effectiveness of the overall implementation and its transformative impact on Moody's Analytics clients.

The Learning Technologies judges commended the successful collaboration between Moody's Analytics and NetDimensions, as well as the impressive focus on helping Moody's Analytics clients achieve their business and learning goals.

"We are honoured to receive this recognition from leading professionals in learning and development. Moody's Analytics is committed to providing an unparalleled learning experience for our clients by delivering industry-leading learning solutions and implementing them with the utmost dedication and attention to detail," said Samantha Hall, Director of eLearning, Training and Certification at Moody's Analytics.
